

Spatial Data Infrastructures for Spatial Planning

Thorsten Reitz
wetransform GmbH

Once established, SDIs can easily be adopted to support a wide range of processes and help with digital transformation. In Germany, this is currently done for spatial planning processes through a set of standards called XPlanung. In this presentation, we will show how these processes help citizens and planners, and how existing SDIs like INSPIRE can be leveraged greatly.